General Physical Exam Given Every Child

It was weighing-in time the first week in February. Miss Carpenter and Mr. R. G. Calhoun turned again to the annual procedure of gathering the information of how many pounds had been gained and how many inches had been grown during the past year. Each child has his weight and height checked and recorded, then Dr. W. T. MacLauchlin from Conover, Dr. John Lafferty from Hickory and Dr. Robert Crawford spent the day on the campus and gave to each of the children a thorough physical examination. Careful notes were made for the doctors and these were put on file in the student's health record. It will be necessary to follow up with some tonsillectomies, a few recommendations for the examination of feet, one or two special requests concerning students' ears for a specialist to examine, etc. All in all, it was a thorough and competent physical examination by outstanding young doctors who have rendered excellent service to the Home for a number of years.

EVANS TO SUPPLY PULPIT

The Session of Little Joe's Presbyterian Church has secured the Reverend John Evans as supply minister for the Church. Mr. Evans is a graduate of Davidson College and the Union Theological Seminary. At the present time he is Professor of Bible at Davidson College and has agreed to assist the congregation here by being its regular supply minister on the first and third Sundays of each month. The other services will be taken by guest ministers chosen for the occasion. In February on the second and fourth Sundays the Reverend Robert Turner, Synod's Director of Christian Education, was guest minister.

S. H. F. Conducts The Youth Sunday Service

The Senior High Council under the direction of Miss Rebekah Carpenter, the Adult Adviser, conducted the Morning Service in Little Joe's Presbyterian Church on Assembly's Youth Sunday. Harold Evans, a member of the senior class, presided and Julia Clendenin of the junior class was the organist. Judy Bolton recited the scripture lesson from memory and a sextette of high school girls sang. In developing the theme before the congregation, the following students participated: Melvin McKenzie, Harold Evans, Beverly McClure, Edna Evans, Randy Shaw, Peggy Sellers, and Tom Finley.

The congregation was unanimous in its praise for the excellent manner in which these young people presented the work of the Church through its Youth Division. The day was concluded with Miss Eloise Wells, Area Director of Christian Education for this Presbytery, speaking to the Young People of the Church in their Vesper Service.

THEY WRITE BACK

The following paragraphs have been taken from letters of former students received at the office in the last few months. They come from far and near.

From Cleveland, Ohio:—"This letter is probably a little late in getting to you, although I hope not too late to buy Christmas presents for one of the boys at Barium Springs. I keep thinking in terms of our Christmas and almost waited too late . . . . .Just recently I was fortunate in getting a promotion at the Telephone Company and right now I am an installation foreman. The work is very interesting as I meet quite a few people during the day . . . . I do not know if I told you, but I am on the Board of Deacons at Church. We are having as our yearly project this year an arch for the church-yard . . . . . You won't forget to send us a letter from one of the boys. Say Hello to everyone for us, and God bless you."

From Florida:—"Amidst the rush of getting settled with our second baby boy and in our new home at the same time, we have almost let a most important event pass by. We have not yet written for our annual Christmas letter from Barium. Please forgive us for this late request and rush a letter to us if you still have any. We always get great joy from this participation in Barium's Christmas, even though we can't be there to witness it. I can never forget how happy the good people of North Carolina made me every year at this time, and it would certainly be a disappointment to me if I ever failed you."

From North Carolina:—"We celebrated our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary on December 17th, but as it came so near to Christmas we did not have a public celebration, and so we decided that instead of having Open House and friends bringing us gifts, we would celebrate it by sending a gift to Barium Springs. So, here is a check, and it is our Thanksgiving Offering to the Lord for such a happy life together."

From North Carolina:—"I hope that I can do a good job of remembering him. It means so much for a child to be remembered. My husband went to Barium Springs when he was nine years old and graduated from high school there. That makes me feel closer to this boy than most other people would."

From Toronto, Canada:—"Sometime between the years 1896-1898 I entered the Barium Springs Orphanage along with three of my sisters. We were from Durham, N. C. If it is possible, will you please send me a certificate, stating the date of my arrival and my age at the time of my arrival. While at the Orphanage I joined the Church and think I was baptized. If there is a Certificate of Baptism, please send that also. All of this information is vital for me to have in order to receive my Old Age Security. Thanking you in advance, and wishing you all good in the New Year."

From New Jersey:—"I am one of the children who was with you around 1900. This is a small donation of appreciation for what was done for us."

From Toronto—"Thanks very much to you and your staff for the trouble and promptness with which you gave me such good service. I too hope this certificate will help my purpose.

Now, thanks for your very nice letter. It is one of my fondest wishes to visit the Home again before my days on earth are done. I am indeed proud to say that I was raised in The Presbyterian Orphans' Home, and I thank God for that fact. Indeed, it has been nearly fifty years or more since I was there. My memories of the Home are precious and most comforting.

Thanks again and may God bless and keep you and all the children of the Home in good health so that the good and wonderful work may prosper. Rest assured that I shall try to visit the Home of my youth if I am ever in range of it, and if you or any of yours should come to Toronto be sure to look me up and stop for a visit."

COTTAGE NEWS

North Cottage

Hi Folks—

Just the routine things have been happening here at the North Cottage. On Friday, January 24th, our girls' basketball team won their first game of the season. We beat Spencer 50 to 29. We got our report cards not long ago. Most of us were very proud, but some thought that they needed to study more.

Now that Christmas is over everyone is looking forward to using the show tickets which the managers of the State and Playhouse Theatres give to us each year.

We have four girls in our cottage who are going out for the Junior Basketball Team. They are Patsy Ross, Pamela Fair, Wilma Bush, and Patsy Porter. We hope they have good luck.

We will try to have more news next month. You will be hearing from us again so keep on reading the Barium Messenger.

The North Girls

Infirmary

Hi Folks—

It has been quite awhile since you have heard from us. We got our report cards Monday. No one here made the Honor Roll, but the grades were pretty good.

We certainly did enjoy the basketball game on Friday night when our girls beat Spencer 50-29. Our boys lost by six points, but it was still a good game.

Each year in January the Young People have the Church Service on Assembly's Youth Sunday. This year one of our girls had a talk. Four of the boys were ushers, and a senior boy presided. A junior girl played the organ, and seven boys and girls had talks. We think the whole program was done nicely and we are proud of our Young People.

That is about all of the news for now, so we'll say "good-bye."

Howard Cottage

Dear Friends:

January is such a good month with all of our Christmas toys to play with and all of our pretty new clothes to wear. It is basketball season too. Those of us who are not old enough for the varsity team get a period to play every day, so we will be ready when the time comes.

We have memorized the Hymn of the Month, "All Beautiful the March of Days." The words come to us as we watch the changes of nature in the colors of the sky and the changes of the weather. We regret to say that we have not had enough snow to give much study to real snow flakes, but we study pictures of them and have great fun at every little snow flurry.

The dining-room hostess and supervisor have planned a happy surprise for those of us who work in the dining-room, but try as hard as we can, we cannot find out what it is.

Our sixth grade is studying Electricity. We enjoy taking electrical things to school and observing how they carry electricity. Our boys have made an Electromagnet.

Linda Roberts was eight years old on her birthday this month. Her aunts came and gave a supper party for the whole cottage. The party was wonderful, and Sherry says, "There's one thing I will always remember,—My first olive!"

Love to all of you.

The Howard Girls

Rumple Hall

Hello, From the Rumple Hall Girls!

We got our report cards Monday, and most of them were real good. We had three girls to make the Honor Roll —Lou Anna Bridgers, Joyce Ann Hughes, and Mary Ann McBennett. Some of the girls fell down, but they are going to improve next time.

We are real proud of our Varsity Girls! They had their first victory on Friday night, beating Spencer 48 to 29. Let's keep up the good work, girls.

Well, news is short this month, so we will sign off with good-bye.

Honor Roll for Six Weeks Ending Jan. 13

A Concern For HUMAN LIFE

The North Carolina Conference for Social Service had its formal beginning on September 6, 1912, when seven leaders in the State who saw that North Carolina was lagging in meeting the social needs of its people, got together for the purpose of planning an organization of citizens with this common concern. Present at this initial meeting were: Dr. Clarence Poe, editor and agriculturist; Dr. W. S. Rankin, State Health Officer; the Reverend M. L. Kesler, Superintendent of the Baptist Orphanage; Dr. L. B. McBrayer, Superintendent of the State Sanatorium; Mr. W. H. Swift, Legal Advisor of the National Child Labor Committee; Miss Daisy Denson, Secretary of the State Board of Charities; and Dr. J. Y. Joyner, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The first general meeting was held in Raleigh, September 17, 1912. It was agreed at this meeting that there was a need in North Carolina for an over-all social service organization that would concern itself with human life and conditions that affect human life —an organization that would seek to unite all interested North Carolinians upon "the threefold program of investigating conditions, awakening the people to the needs, and securing the remedies." Dr. Clarence Poe was elected first president.

The committees set up at this first meeting were indicative of the pressing social problems of the day, as well as of the foresight, courage, ambition, and energy of those early members. The committees were: Church and Social Service, Illiteracy, Reformatories, Criminal Procedure, Orphanages, Feeblemindedness, Improvement of Country Life, Child Labor, Prisons, Liquor Problem, Race Question, Public Health, Taxation, Women and Social Service, and Associated Charities.

The Conference, then as now, had annual meetings and the programs were outstanding. In those early days on at least one occasion when the annual meeting was held in Raleigh while the General Assembly was in session, the final Conference session was held in the hall of the House of Representatives and the legislators were invited to attend. Conference members talked straight from the shoulder about the urgent need for a law providing a six months school term, the need for a better child labor law, the importance of public health work, and the need for reform in our system of taxation. The Conference was responsible for most of the social legislation enacted during those early years and has been an important factor in much that has been enacted in later years.

Not only was the idea for the present county unit public welfare plan with a central State office conceived by the Conference, but the bill which became law in 1917 was drawn by a committee from the Conference. North Carolina pioneered in this field and its plan was followed by many states. The first Conference leaders had had a part in 1911 in the setting up of a public health plan similar to the county unit welfare plan.

The Conference worked diligently for the juvenile court plan; laws for the protection of children in industry; the six, the eight, and then the nine months school term; the Workmen's Compensation Act; foster boarding home care; and the program for public assistance to the needy aged, blind, and dependent children in North Carolina. Expanding health facilities, including preventive services of state and local health departments and the state-wide medical care and hospital program, have also been among its interests, as has housing as an environmental factor. These are by no means all of the areas in which the influence of this organization has been felt but just some of the major interests.

An outstanding job was done by the Citizen's Committee of One Hundred on Prison Legislation which was active in the Conference from 1922-1926. The work of this committee resulted in some constructive legislation affecting prisoners, with emphasis upon their rehabilitation.

It is difficult to single out the many places where some idea or action that originated in the Conference has affected some phase of the social progress of North Carolina. One of its purposes has always been to help educate the citizens of the State as to next needs in the field of social service. It has been the attitude of the Conference that if some needed job were done, the matter of credit for it is of no importance. This can be illustrated by the fact that the idea of having the Osborne Association make a survey of the prison system of the State originated in the Conference Adult and Juvenile Delinquency Committee. The suggestion was passed along to the Prison Advisory Council, the survey was made, and the results are proving to be far reaching.

As has been indicated, the Conference is now largely a study and planning group. There are, therefore, many areas in which the Conference initiates the program that makes for the beginning of the solution of social problems, while an existing agency, public or private, carries out the program. There are areas, too, in which the Conference makes the suggestion and promulgates the thinking regarding certain needs and the suggestion is adopted and followed through on by existing agencies or institutions.

In reality, there has been no change from the beginning in the purpose of this indepent volunteer social service organization. Through the years the Conference has continued to work at filling the need that it was created to fill. Its object, as stated now in the constitution, is " . . . to initiate, foster, and coordinate movements for social progress in North Carolina." While the committee structure has changed somewhat and the committees are not as numerous as they were in the beginning, yet the present four working committees can encompass all phases of social service. These committees are: Adult and Juvenile Delinquency, Children and Youth, Health, and Special Projects.

The Conference is the one organization in the State offering a common meeting ground for all who are interested in social service—the lay person as well as the professional worker in both public and private agencies. People from all areas plan and work together in an effort to extend the scope of social service in the State.

During the past ten years the Conference has turned more and more to studies which serve as a basis for educating the people as to next needs. Matters of legislation are now channeled through the State Legislative Council of which the Conference is one of the twenty member organizations.

Beginning in 1948 and continuing at the present time, the Conference has directed North Carolina's participation in all phases of the Mid-century White House Conference on Children and Youth. It was named by the Governor to do the job on the basis of its long and outstanding record of work on behalf of the children of the State.

More recently the Conference has compiled and distributed publicity on foster care for children and two brochures on guardianship.

A major project started recently, with plans to continue it over a period of several years, is in the field of prenatal care. A pamphlet on prenatal care, "Giving Your Baby a Chance", has been published and is being widely distributed in an effort to help reduce North Carolina's infant mortality rate. This pamphlet, written in the laymans' language, is available without charge, upon request, by single copies or in quantity. Approximately 26,000 copies have already been distributed by the Conference and in cooperation with numerous interested agencies and organizations.

A study of health insurance in North Carolina is another recent project. A full written report of the study was compiled and this was condensed and published in a small brochure, "What of Health Insurance?". Approximately 12,000 copies have been distributed. Individual copies are available upon request and it is available in quantity for a nominal sum.

Among other current areas of concern of the Conference are: pre-school psychological examinations, moneys and fees collected in the public schools of the State, care of the chronically ill, special education as a means of delinquency prevention, an informational folder on the availability of constructive help for unwed expectant mothers, an a pamphlet on needs and resources for older people in North Carolina.

A Conference ambition is a film to convey to communities all over the State the scope of the foster care program, in an effort to secure additional foster homes, not only for the normal, but also for the exceptional child. Plans for this are fully developed awaiting money to carry them out. In the meantime there is an urgent need for this contribution to the foster care program.

This very concise summary can serve only to acquaint you with some of the emphases in the work of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service. Its work is ever changing to meet changing times but its interest is constant—the whole broad field of social service in North Carolina.

Mrs. Alma Roberts Joins The Staff

On February 1st, Mrs. Alma Roberts of Concord, N. C. joined the staff at Barium Springs as a substitute housemother. The first week was spent in visiting the cottages where she is to relieve the regular housemothers and in becoming oriented in the life of the campus. Before coming to Barium Springs, Mrs. Roberts was a faithful member of the Bayless Memorial Presbyterian Church in Concord, having served as president of the Women of the Church there. She expressed the desire, now that the duties of her own family no longer call her to render further service in the work of the Church, in living with the boys and girls at Barium Springs and serving as a housemother.
